SHAT - "What The Fuck Do You Think Christina Aguilera Is Doing Right Now?"

THIS TRACK

Ten seconds in, it's not any easier to determine whether the question in the title is rhetorical or not. Maybe italics help. "What the fuck do you think Christina Aguilera is doing right now?" No, doesn't help. But by now Shat, a.k.a. Jeff Wood, has moved on to the potential answers. Highlights include "thumbin' herself," "eatin' a cunt" (from the low-hanging cunt tree in the liner notes, maybe?) and "chargin' her rag." More realistic answers (sleeping, breathing, doing some plain vanilla-style fucking) aren't included, though. Shat's crunched power chords follow Woods' voice over each line, punctuating the urgency. But he really doesn't care what she's doing—he just wants to close the emotional distance that separates him from her, that stops him from knowing, for sure, what the fuck Christina Aguilera is doing right now. Woods has his list of preferences: "I wish that I could take off all her clothes"... "I wish that I could fuck her all the time"... "I can't believe my dick ain't in her 'ayce." But these are all daydreams—and therein lies the song's tragedy. You can hear the yearning; she is Heloise to his Abelard. But not even Woods's voice, straining against the gruff limits of his range, can make Xтина materialize. The question is as beside the point as its boring answer: She's doing a bunch of stuff with some shortdick named Jordan Bratman. Not Shat. - JESSICA SUAREZ
